- It is a big burden almost to every family and it is now become a source of poverty.

GENDER EQUALITY BY 2015, YES WE MUST!

Background

- I chose to produce this story after being involved in a survey of seeking information on how is the situation among the affected and the organisation which is implementing this kind of work.

Objectives

- In this coverage I hope to achieve more support from the government, policies for HIV/AIDS will be reviewed to relate to the broad of problems around.
- Also to bring more awareness about the impact of this problem and persuade stakeholders to take initiatives.

Targets

- My target was to reach all the organisations and stakeholders who deal with care and support for the unprivileged and also to raise an alarm for the government to take its responsibility.
- The attached photos and illustrations are a clear visual stimulation for the targeted aim.

Process

- The data herewith achieved was through focus group discussions, interviews as well as concrete information from key informants. Several male and females were contacted to enrich my article.

Feedback

- After several reports findings and these articles regarding Home care Support Survey, the TACAIDS last year reviewed its policy in support for the same. Kindly visit www.tacaid.org.tz for more information.
- Again, TGNP is now working on the project of Home Based Care, which we believe is going to be very successful.
- Also tuboreshe chakula project has involved itself in trying to bring relief into this problem by applying to provide food and food programmes in the remote areas.

Follow up

- Application for funds from the RFE has been done already. This is mainly for monitoring and evaluation for all the services provided into the community regarding Home Based Care.
- Consultations with TACAIDS and AIDS commission is being done several time in order to get some new and update data.
